

French International School of Philadelphia Policy on Technology

Personal devices are not used during the school day by the children nor the faculty. Cell phones and smartwatches brought to school by the students are collected at the beginning of the day and returned when students are leaving campus.

I-pads, tablets and chromebooks are introduced when determined that technology is the best tool for achieving a specific learning objective. When technology is used, it is under the active and continuous supervision of the teacher, with the additional protection provided by the school's network and firewall. No technology devices leave the school.
